THE ART OF EVOLUTION

[evo'lu-tion. noun. ¹A gradual process in which something changes into a different and usually more complex or better form. ^{2a}The process of developing. ^{2b}Gradual development.

The name 'Evolution' is based on the concept that design is an evolutionary process and that this Durban-based practice is evolving as its members grow and develop their understanding of what makes good architecture.

Evolution Architects is a small but efficient group of young professionals with a strong work ethic. They offer personalised, dedicated service of the highest level and always strive for design excellence, with a strong focus on environmentally responsible design solutions. The practice has been extensively involved in the design, documentation and supervision of several prestigious projects throughout South Africa and has experience in various fields of architecture. However, the team's special interests remain in retail architecture and green buildings.

Evolution Architects has been awarded first prize by the South African Council of Shopping Centres for retail design development. And its design for an office building at 24 Richford Circle, Ridgside, Umhlanga, was the first building in KwaZulu-Natal and the second in the country to achieve a Four-Star Green Star Design and As Built rating from the Green Building Council of South Africa. ☺
